ZONING BOARD OF APPEALS INFORMATION PACKET

For Persons or Corporations Applying for Variance(s) or Special Permit(s)

The Harriman Zoning Board of Appeals (hereinafter known as the “ZBA”) has put together this document to assist all persons appearing before this Board. Contained within are simple explanations to the following topics:

- (1) Purpose of the ZBA and how the process works.
- (2) What types of relief the ZBA can grant.
- (3) What an applicant can expect from the ZBA.
- (4) Your obligations as an applicant.
- (5) What the ZBA requires and what is required of the ZBA regarding the decision making process.

The purpose of the Zoning Board of Appeals:

The Board of Appeals shall perform all the duties and have all the powers prescribed in Article 7 of the Village Law of the State of New York and as herein more particularly provided. The Harriman 5 member ZBA has the power to hear and decide appeals brought by persons who allege some “harm” (Negative impact) to them as a result of a decision by any local official who interprets and enforces the Zoning laws of the Village of Harriman (most likely the Building Inspector). The ZBA hears the appeals and is empowered to grant relief and/or interpret the Zoning Laws of the Village of Harriman.

Who may appeal?

Anyone who believes that they have been “harmed” by a decision of the Village Building Inspector or Code Enforcement Officer may appeal that decision to the ZBA.

Reasons for Appeal/Petition:

In most cases, the applicant has come before the ZBA for one of the following three reasons:

- (1) If you wish to have the Zoning Board of Appeals interpret or determine the meaning of any portion of the Village Zoning Law or any condition or requirement therein.
- (2) You were denied a building permit by the Building Inspector or Code Enforcement Officer since your request did not meet the requirements of the Harriman Zoning Laws.

- (3) You were issued a notice of violation by the Building Inspector or Code Enforcement Officer who alleges that you are constructing or maintaining a structure or condition which does not meet the requirements of the Zoning Law (for example, you have converted a residence into a business, or you have constructed an accessory building on your property which, due to location or use, requires approval by the ZBA).

Types of Variance:

You may apply for what is called a “variance” from the Zoning Law which, if granted, will allow you to obtain a building permit to construct or maintain said structure, condition or accessory building.

There are two categories of Variance.

(1) Area Variance:

An area variance, if granted, allows the applicant a use of land in a manner which is not allowed by the dimensional or physical requirements of the Zoning Law and to construct and/or maintain a structure, accessory building or condition on an otherwise restricted portion of a property. For example, (a) you wish to locate an accessory use (pool, shed, etc.) on the side or front yard of your house when the Zoning Law requires said accessory use to be located in the rear yard or (b) you wish to add an addition to your house which, when completed, will increase the total area of the structure and therefore violates the Zoning Law setback requirements (mandated distance between the structure and the boundaries of your property).

(2) Use Variance:

A use variance, if granted, allows the applicant permission to use their property (or a portion thereof) for a purpose not otherwise permitted by the Zoning Law. Examples include; (a) you wish to purchase a house and convert it into a small business in a District zoned for residential use only, (b) you wish to construct a warehouse or small factory on property zoned for banks and professional office buildings or (c) you wish to construct or convert a building to a multi-family dwelling on property zoned for single- family residence.

What is Required of Applicants?

In order to initiate the process, applicant must submit a completed application form to the Zoning Board and pay a non-refundable fee and may be required to deposit an escrow fee to cover the cost associated with the review of the application.

Whether the request is for a use or an area variance, the applicant is required to provide appropriate documentation that will allow the ZBA to decide the merits of the case. Examples of such documentation includes, but is not limited to SEQRA assessment and/or environmental impact statements (if applicable: consult Building Inspector, Code Enforcement Officer or ZBA Secretary), plans, blueprints, survey map(s) of property in question in relation to adjoining properties, photographs of the property and/or structure from various angles, related and pertinent documents from Federal, State, County and Municipal agencies (DOT, CED, Health Departments, etc.), corroborating, documentation from Real Estate Professionals, banks, appraisers, mortgage companies, etc. and any other documentation required by the ZBA.

Additionally, the applicant may make use of reasonable resources available such as professional representation (attorney, architect, engineer, etc.) affidavits from interested parties (neighbors, business associates, etc.) and the use of experts (contractors, real estate professionals, appraisers, etc.).

The Burden of Proof by the Applicant

In the case of an area variance, New York Village Law requires the applicant to show that “the benefit received from the variance outweighs any burden to health, safety and welfare that may be suffered by the community”. The Law requires the ZBA to consider 5 factors when making its determination. Thus, the ZBA requires that the applicant answer the following questions, in writing, on the application and be prepared to explain and support those answers, if required, at the hearing:

- (1) If the area variance is granted, will an undesirable change be produced in the neighborhood or will a detriment to nearby properties be created?
- (2) Could the implementation of a feasible alternative provide a similar benefit to the applicant, in place of granting the area variance?
- (3) Is the requested area variance substantial? (In a manner that could impact the character of the neighborhood and/or the surrounding properties.)
- (4) Will the proposed area variance have an adverse effect or impact on the physical or environmental conditions in the neighborhood or district?
- (5) Is the alleged difficulty self-created?

In the case of a use variance, New York Village Law requires the applicant prove “unnecessary hardship”. To prove this, the applicant must show all of the following: that

- (1) The property is incapable of earning a “reasonable” return on the initial investment if used for any of the uses allowed by the Zoning Law.

Applicants planning on using (1) above as their primary reason for requesting a use variance should be aware of the following:

- (a) Actual “dollars and cents” proof must be submitted. A mere showing of present loss is not enough; the applicant must demonstrate that the return from the property is not reasonable for each and every permitted use under the Zoning Law.
 - (b) Be aware that a reduction in the value of a property because of the Zoning Law or the fact that a change in the permitted use may increase the selling price of the property, or permit a larger profit does not in itself justify the granting of a use variance on the grounds of unnecessary hardship.
- (2) The property is being affected by unique or at least highly uncommon circumstances;

Applicants must show that the hardship is totally unique to this property and is not shared by other properties in the applicant's district or neighborhood.

- (3) The use variance, if granted, will not alter the essential character of the neighborhood; and*
- (4) That the hardship is not self-created.*

Flexibility of the Decision(s) Allowed a ZBA

Applicants should be aware that in considering an area variance, the ZBA is not bound by the particular answers to any of the 5 questions in reaching a decision. Rather, the ZBA must take each one of the factors into account. Further, in regards to the granting of relief, the Board may decide on the following:

- (1) that the applicant has not submitted the required proof and therefore deny the variance;*
- (2) that a lesser variance (than the one requested by the applicant) is appropriate or*
- (3) that there are remedies and alternatives available to the applicant that doesn't require the granting of an area variance.*

In the case of a use variance, the Village Law requires that the ZBA must deny the variance if any one (or more) of the 4 factors is not proven.

Whether you are applying for a use or an area variance, New York State law requires the ZBA to grant the minimum variance necessary to provide you with relief. You should be aware that the ZBA is required to protect the character of the neighborhood and the health, safety and welfare of the community; as a result, the Board may impose reasonable conditions and restrictions on the variance.

A FINAL WORD

This informational document has been prepared as a resource to those applicants who are unfamiliar with ZBA procedures. It is intended to complement, not replace the advice of professionals (such as attorneys, architects, civil engineers) and advisors.

If, as a result of reading the information contained in this packet, you have additional questions or need clarification, please contact the Building Inspector or Code Enforcement Officer at 783-6892.

PLEASE NOTE:

The explanations, examples and guidelines contained in this document are not in any way intended to function as a promise or guarantee of any type to an applicant. Each case is judged on its own merits. Procedures and case law may change at any time; it is the responsibility of each applicant to be familiar with the current laws, precedents and protocol.
